About the Project

The GUERRE project brings together partners from Greece, Bulgaria, Serbia and North Macedonia with a shared mission to safeguard the cultural and linguistic heritage of World War I.

By combining research, culture and digital innovation, the project aims to highlight common narratives and strengthen a shared European perspective on the past.

Partnership & Launch

The project has officially launched, marking the beginning of a close cross-border collaboration between academic, cultural and innovation actors. Its digital presence is now live, offering a first point of access to the project's vision, activities and upcoming opportunities.

From Archives to Interpretation: Managing Sensitive Cultural Heritage

As part of its early activities, GUERRE delivered its first workshop on the management and interpretation of sensitive cultural heritage.

The workshop brought together expertise from across the consortium to explore approaches to archival research, heritage interpretation and the connection between historical material and future artistic creation.

What's Next

Building on this foundation, the project now moves into its research phase, where stories, archives and cultural elements will be collected and shaped into the future digital museum.
